

The four quarters of the Inca Empire stretched from what is now northern Ecuador to central Chile. Control of this vast territory was facilitated by an impressive network of roads.